

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A flexible handle for a slip comprises a first element, wherein the first element is attached to the slip; a chain connected to the first element; a second element connected
5 to the chain, wherein the second element is configured as a handle; and a flexible sleeve encompassing the chain and attached to the first and second elements. Preferably, the chain is composed of four links of zinc plated 3/16 inch, 700 pound strength chain links and the flexible sleeve is composed of molded polyurethane.